

Moses L. and Minerva (Prentiss) Emery

21775 CHARLES EDWARD EMERY married. 6 Aug. 1863 SUSAN S. LIVINGSTON
d/o E. R. Livingston of Brooklyn, New York.

When studying law in Canandaugua, New York. early in 1861, he organized a military company which was disbanded when President Lincoln made the mistaken announcement that no more troops were needed. Soon after he entered the regular Navy as an assistant engineer and participated on the U.S. Steamer Richmond in the engagement at Fort Pickens, the capture of New Orleans and the naval attack on Vicksburg and Port Hudson. Was afterwards on the U. S. Steamer Nipsic at Charleston, South Carolina. Before the close of the war was ordered to New York and assisted in conducting U.S. experiments. Resigned 1 Jan. 1869. Appointed consulting engineer of the U.S. Service and U.S. Revenue Marine in the same year and the latter appointments has continued to the present time (1890). Made experiments with different types of machinery in the U.S. Revenue Marine Steamer which have been published in scientific literature all over the world. The degree of Doctor of Philosophy conferred upon him soon after. Was one of the judges at the centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia. He built the plant of successful steam company in New York City at a cost of nearly $2,000,000.00. Has been consulting steam engineer of the terminal facilities of the New York and Brooklyn Bridge and several of the principal plants of the Edison Electric Lighting Company. Is a member of the principal scientific and engineering societies at home and abroad. Has been a frequent contributor to the engineering and scientific periodicals, receiving the Watt Medal and Telfar Premium from the (British) Institution of Civil Engineers. Is a non-resident professor and lectures at Cornell University. Is chairman of the engineers examining boards of the U. S. Revenue Schoolship. Office in New Yor City.

A Representative from Maine; born on a farm near Harmony, Somerset County, Maine, June 9, 1876; moved with his parents to Hartland, Maine, in 1891; attended the rural schools and Hartland (Maine) Academy; taught school; served in the State house of representatives 1899-1903 and 1919-1923; engaged in the retail clothing and hardware business in 1901; superintendent of schools of Hartland 1903-1906; member of the board of selectmen of Hartland 1904-1907; moved to Skowhegan, Maine, having been elected sheriff of Somerset County and served from 1905 to 1909; engaged in the retail sales of automobiles, the hardware and plumbing business, and the newspaper publishing business in Skowhegan; later engaged in banking and the real estate business; member of the board of selectmen of Skowhegan 1914-1932; served in the State senate 1923-1929; chairman of the State highway commission 1928-1932; member of the Governor's council 1933-1937; elected as a Republican to the Seventy-fifth and Seventy-sixth Congresses and served from January 3, 1937, until his death in Washington, D.C., April 8, 1940; interment in Pine Grove Cemetery, Hartland, Maine.

She received her early education at Lincoln and Garfield Elementary Schools. At age 12, she went to work at a local five-and-dime store and even bought herself a life insurance policy. She also shaved her father's customers when he was busy or away from the shop. She attended Skowhegan High School, graduating in 1916. During high school, she played on the girls' basketball team, of which she was captain in her senior year.[She also worked as a substitute operator with a telephone company during this time. In that position she met Clyde Smith, a prominent local politician, who arranged a job for her as a part-time assistant to the tax assessor. Following her high school graduation, Chase briefly taught at the Pitts School, a one-room school near Skowhegan. She also coached the girls' basketball team at Skowhegan High (1917-18). She was a business executive for the Maine Telephone and Telegraph Company (1918-1919) before joining the staff of the Independent Reporter, a Skowhegan weekly newspaper (owned by Clyde Smith) for whom she was circulation manager from 1919 to 1928. She became involved with local women's organizations. She co-founded the Skowhegan chapter of the Business and Professional Women's Club in 1922, and served as editor of the club's magazine, The Pine Cone.[8] From 1926 to 1928, she was president of the statewide organization, the Maine Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. She became treasurer of the New England Waste Process Company in 1928, and was also employed as an office worker with the Daniel E. Cummings Woolen Company, a local textile mill. After her marriage she soon became active in politics, and was elected to the Maine Republican State Committee, on which she served from 1930 to 1936. After Clyde was elected to the U.S. House of Representatives from Maine's 2nd congressional district in 1936, Smith accompanied her husband to Washington, D.C. to serve as his secretary. In this position, she managed his office, handled his correspondence, conducted research, and helped write his speeches. She also served as treasurer of the Congressional Club, a group composed of the wives of congressmen and Cabinet members.

In the spring of 1940, Clyde Smith fell seriously ill after suffering a heart attack, and asked his wife to run for his House seat in the general election the following September. He prepared a press release in which he stated, "I know of no one else who has the full knowledge of my ideas and plans or is as well qualified as she is, to carry on these ideas and my unfinished work for my district.

A member of the Republican Party, she served as a U.S Representative (1940-49) and a U.S. Senator (1949-73) from Maine. She was the first woman to serve in both houses of the United States Congress, and the first woman to represent Maine in either. She was a candidate for the Republican nomination in the 1964 presidential election; she was the first woman to be placed in nomination for the presidency at a major party's convention.

She resided and died at Skowhegan, Maine, 29 May 1995
